1. Project logo and graphical identity

---

Wavestone, with the support of a subcontractor and with the validation of the Coordinator, designed the SensMat logo and graphical identity, presented below.

They are shared with the partners on the secured collaborative platform.

2. Project website

Wavestone and CEA, with the support of a subcontractor, designed the SensMat public website. It is available at <https://www.sensmat.eu/>.

The website contains useful public information about: project objectives and expected results, partners description, dissemination activities (public deliverables, project documentation, publications), useful links to other projects/clusters/initiatives, news about the project.

The website will provide information adapted for large audience, including researchers, students, museums, future customers.

It will be regularly updated by Wavestone, based on all partners' contributions, in order to share the progress and news regarding both SensMat as well as relevant data about preventive conservation.

ABOUT SensMat

Preventive conservation (PC) has emerged as an important approach for the long-term preservation of sensitive cultural heritage (CH), notably for mobile artefacts, those displayed or stored in harsh environments and for small and medium-sized museums.

SensMat aims to develop and implement effective, low cost (<20 - 30€ for basic platform), eco-innovative and user-friendly sensors, models and decision-making tools, as well as recommendations and guidelines to enable prediction and prevention of degradation of artefacts as a function of environmental conditions...
